“ The Good Lord has a warm embrace for Miss Caesar. When we worked at the Youth Institution together, I always addressed her that way, especially around the young inmates, to show them that we should all be respectful. She had a firm and gentle way and she was effective with many of the unruly young sprouts we supervised. We often talked about places down south that I had visited, like Memphis, Biloxi, Mississippi, and much of Virginia. A few times back then I spoke on the phone to Merle, then a youngster, when he'd call to talk to his mom. My prayers and respect for Miss Caesar, and may the Family have many fond memories of their hard-working mom. Sometimes, other people would talk gossip, but Miss Caesar would not participate in that. She was " old school " about that. She was a nice addition to the staff there. She was a dependable friend, in a job where that meant so much.....John Shove, in CT.....
