“ Mama, You were an amazing person. You were there for me when my own home wasnt a good place for me to be. You took me in. I will forever be grateful. I'm gonna miss all of late night talks over coffee when everyone was asleep. I'm gonna miss turning your ring on your finger after our talks. (our inside joke). Your children and grandchildren are in so much pain, missing you so much and its heartbreaking. I wish I could do something to ease it. I know you fought some tough battles. I understand you were tired. I will treasure all the memories we have together. Thank you for being the amazing woman you were. I love you Mama...I'm gonna miss you so much. Xoxo

“ Pat,

Our friendship started 45 years ,when we meet at our first job at W.T. Grants. Thru the years we did almost everything together in our lives, dating our first husbands , getting engaged, marrying ,having children and even getting divorced within a year of each other.

Watching our kids grow and have their own. Our grandchildren we bragged about endlessly.

The miles and miles we walked holding nothing back from each other, the tears and laughs we shared on those walks no one will ever know.

The good times and sad times are all memories that I hold in my heart of you.

I could go on and on, fill a book with our stories , I will cherish and share all of our memories for the rest of my life.

Until we meet again my best friend.

Love ya, Jean

“ 40 years ago God knitted me together in my mothers womb, he made a purfect creation.. She carried me for nine months and gave birth. My mother loved me, cared for me, got really mad when I did wrong. I watched my mother go with out so my brothers and sister could have. Her memory will always be in my heart. When I found out she was ill I prayed to god heal my mother, but if healing my mom was not in your will God send an angel in my mothers life to guide her through this tough time, and also speak to you about Gods great love.that was my prayer , I believe with everything in my heart that my prayer was answerd.Mom I know you are in heaven right now celebrating with God and all his angels. I love you and I will see you again when my time here on this earth is over. Love always your son Michael
